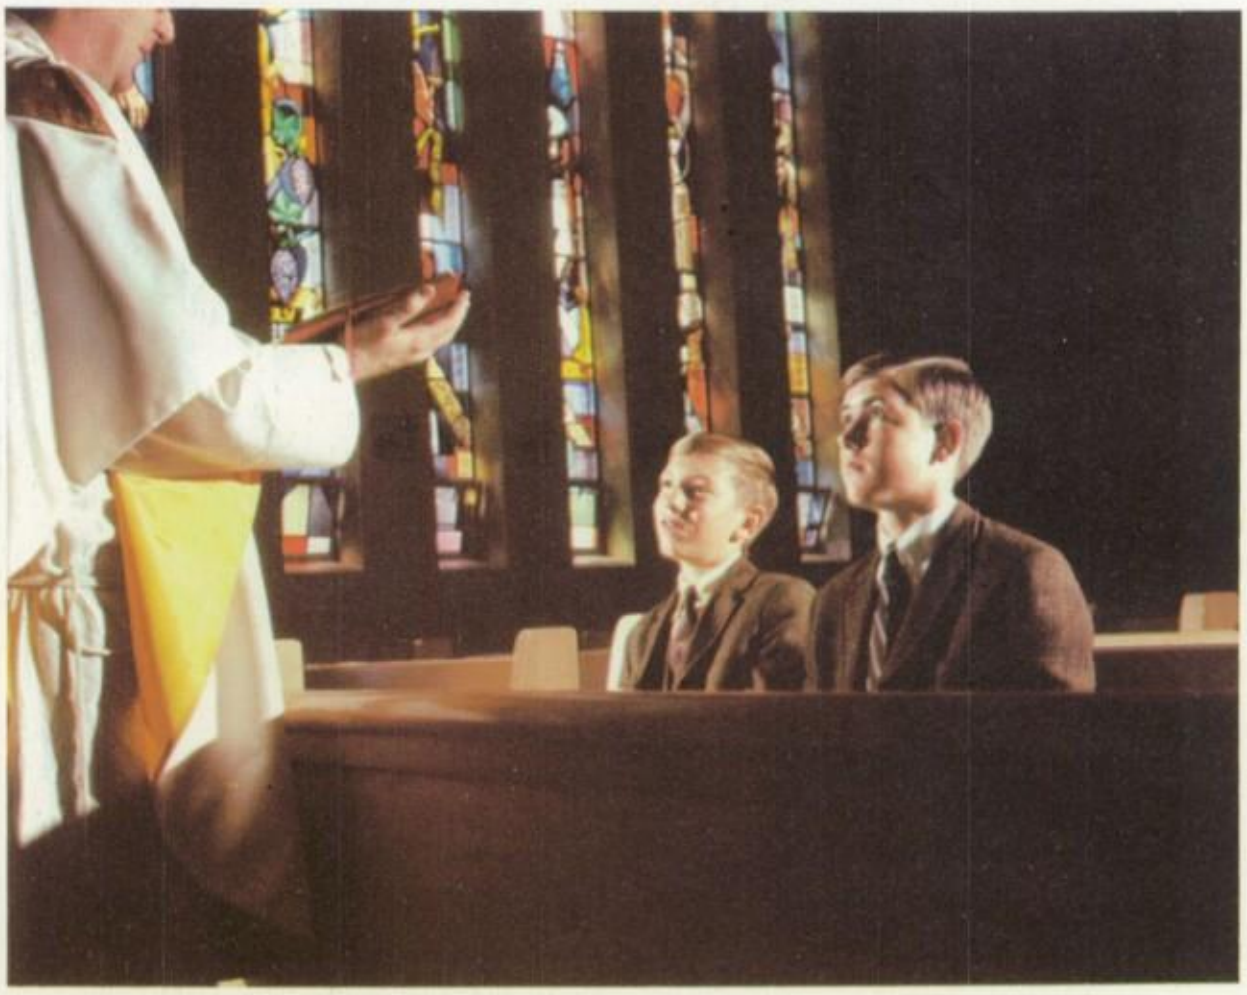
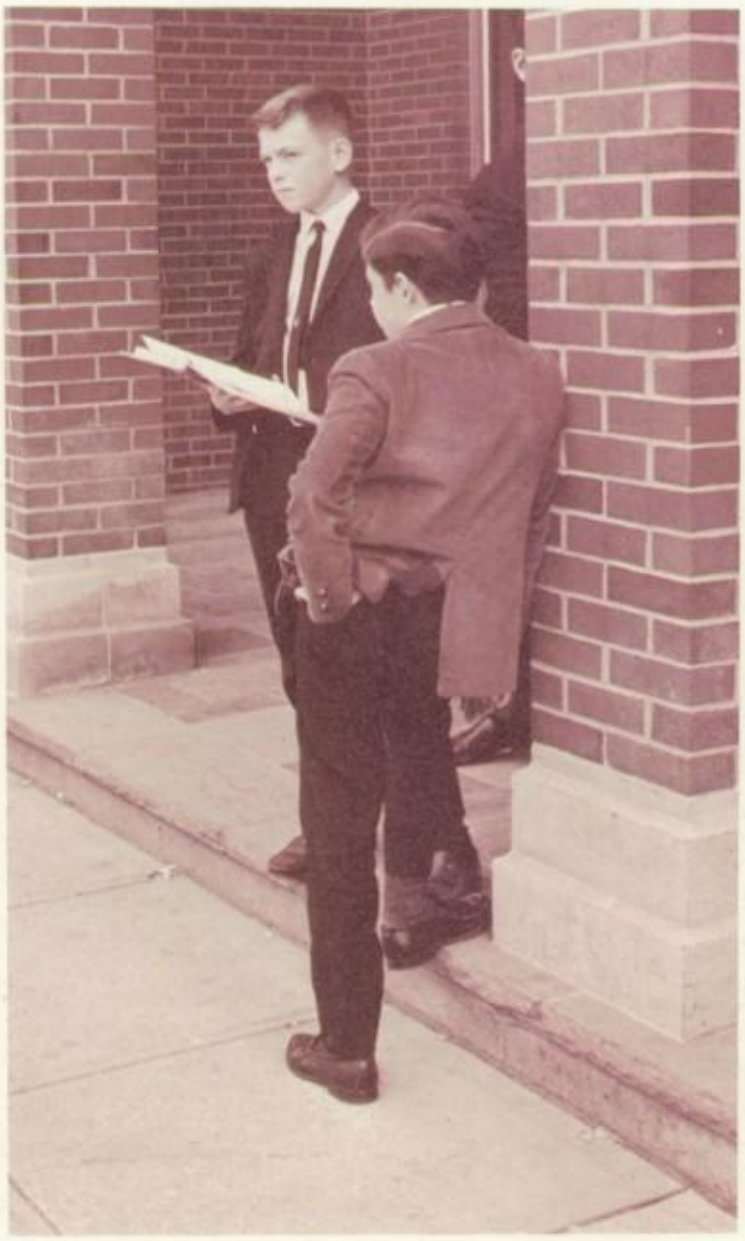
THE LIONS' LAIR

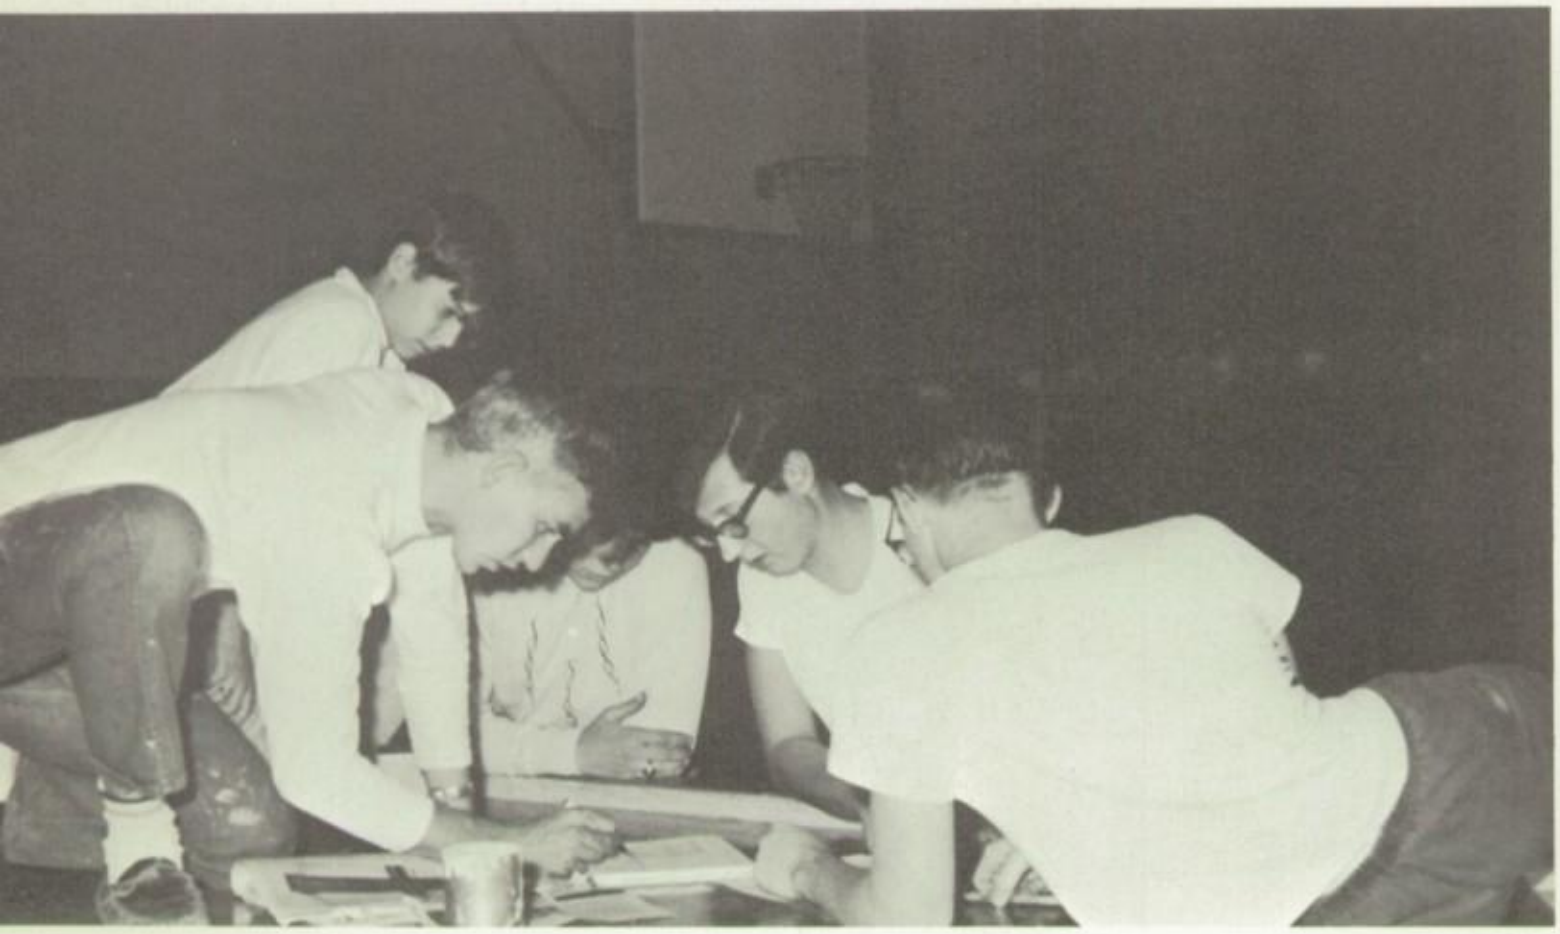
1968

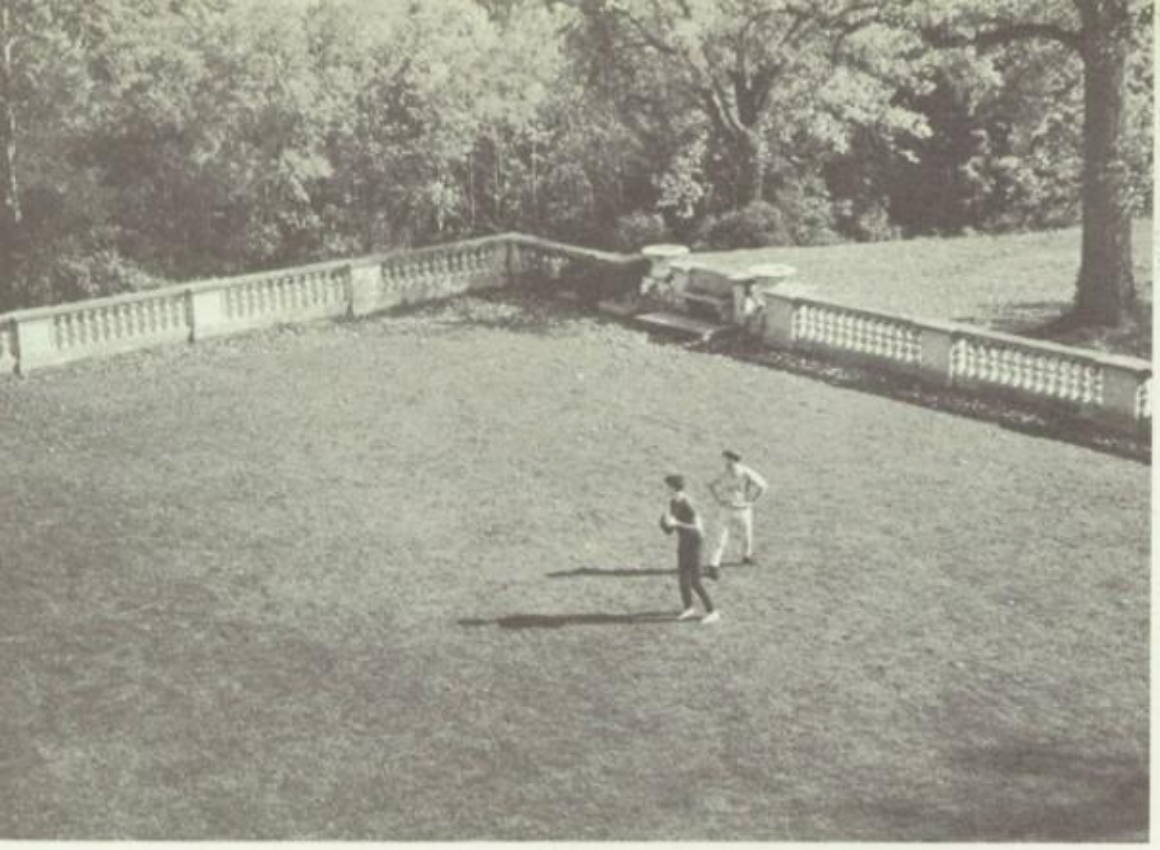
We live today in a world filled with challenges never thought of or dreamed of before. We live in a world where the sky is no longer the limit, where reality is rival to imagination, and where the Sun and Moon are merely stepping stones to the stars. We live in a world of love and hate, of truth and lies, and of faceless people struggling for identification in concrete jungles across the globe.

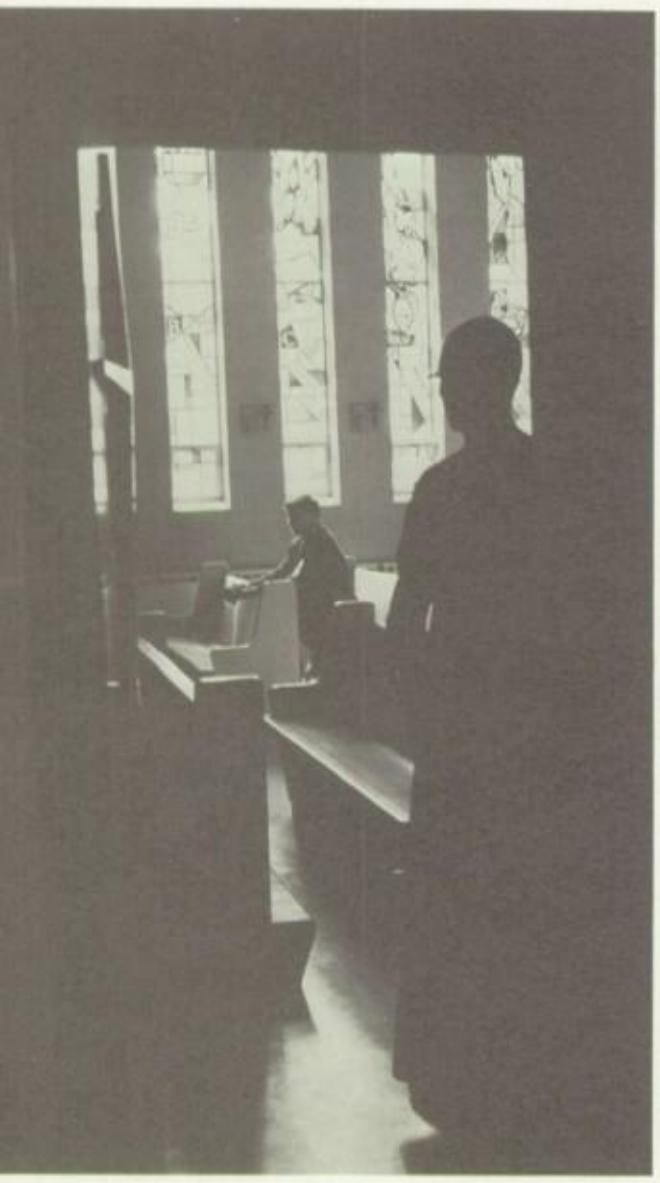
Soon this amazing, often troubled world, will be the inheritance of another generation which will, like others before it, attempt to make it richer and happier and better for all. Perhaps it will succeed. Possibly it will fail. But we, the sixth graduating class of Roselle Catholic, with proverbial fingers crossed, dedicate the Lions' Lair to this generation; we dedicate it to "Youth."











The Bible tells us that the Hebrew people spent forty years in the Sinai desert, searching for their land and for their god. Our search for God in a God-less world can be likened to the Hebrew's. The pathway is strewn with rocks and overgrown with brambles; the pathway winds and twists and there are hundreds of diversions and disappointments along the way.

Our "search" is indeed difficult but we know that our school, with its devoted teachers has at least pointed the way.

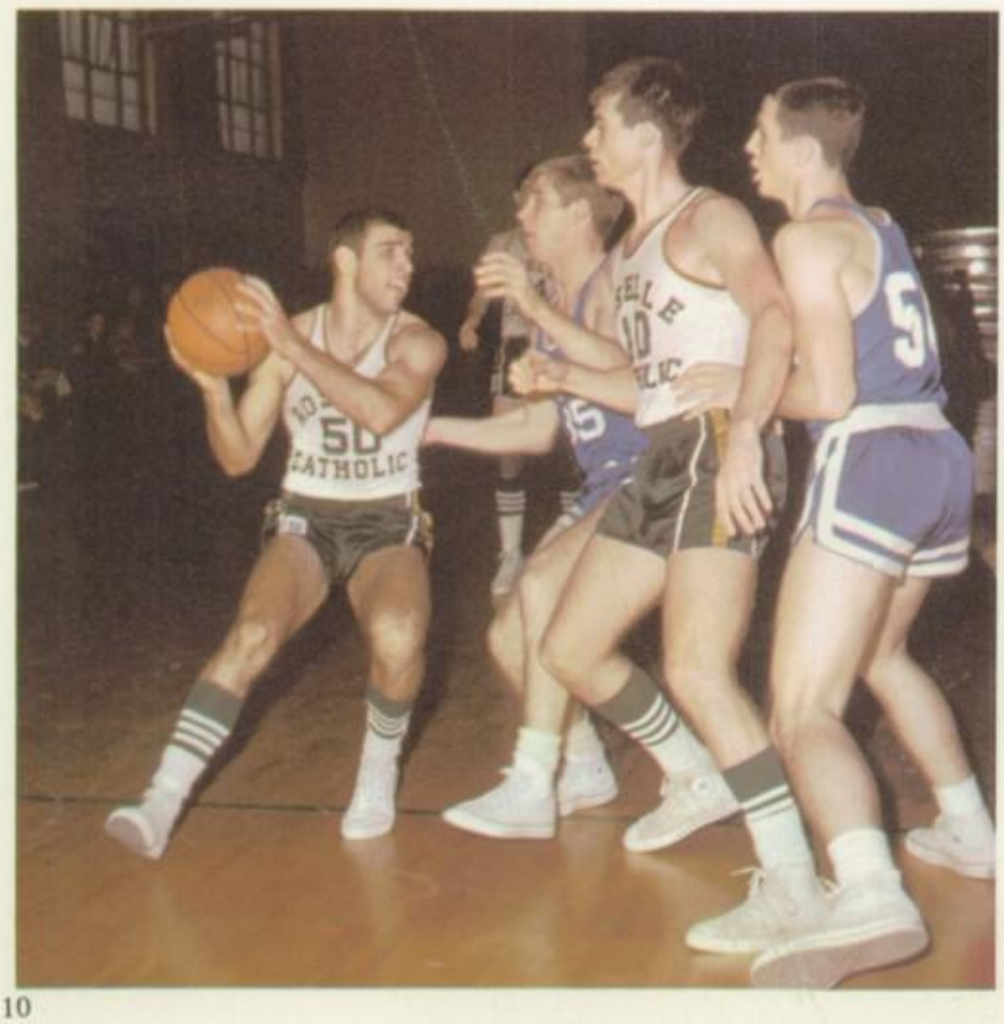
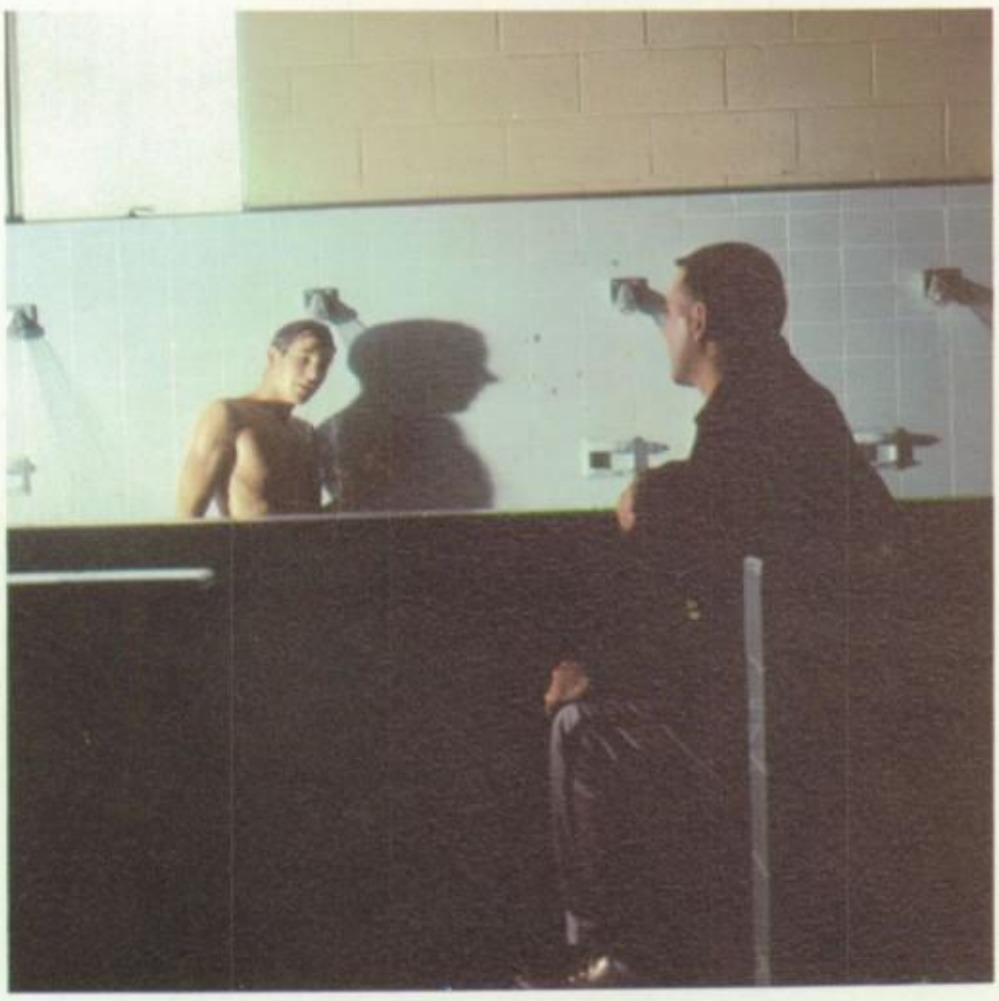
The whistle blows, the ball flies into the air, and below two stooping figures are poised to leap as high as the earth will allow them, for a fleeting flirtation with an object that means nothing to them.

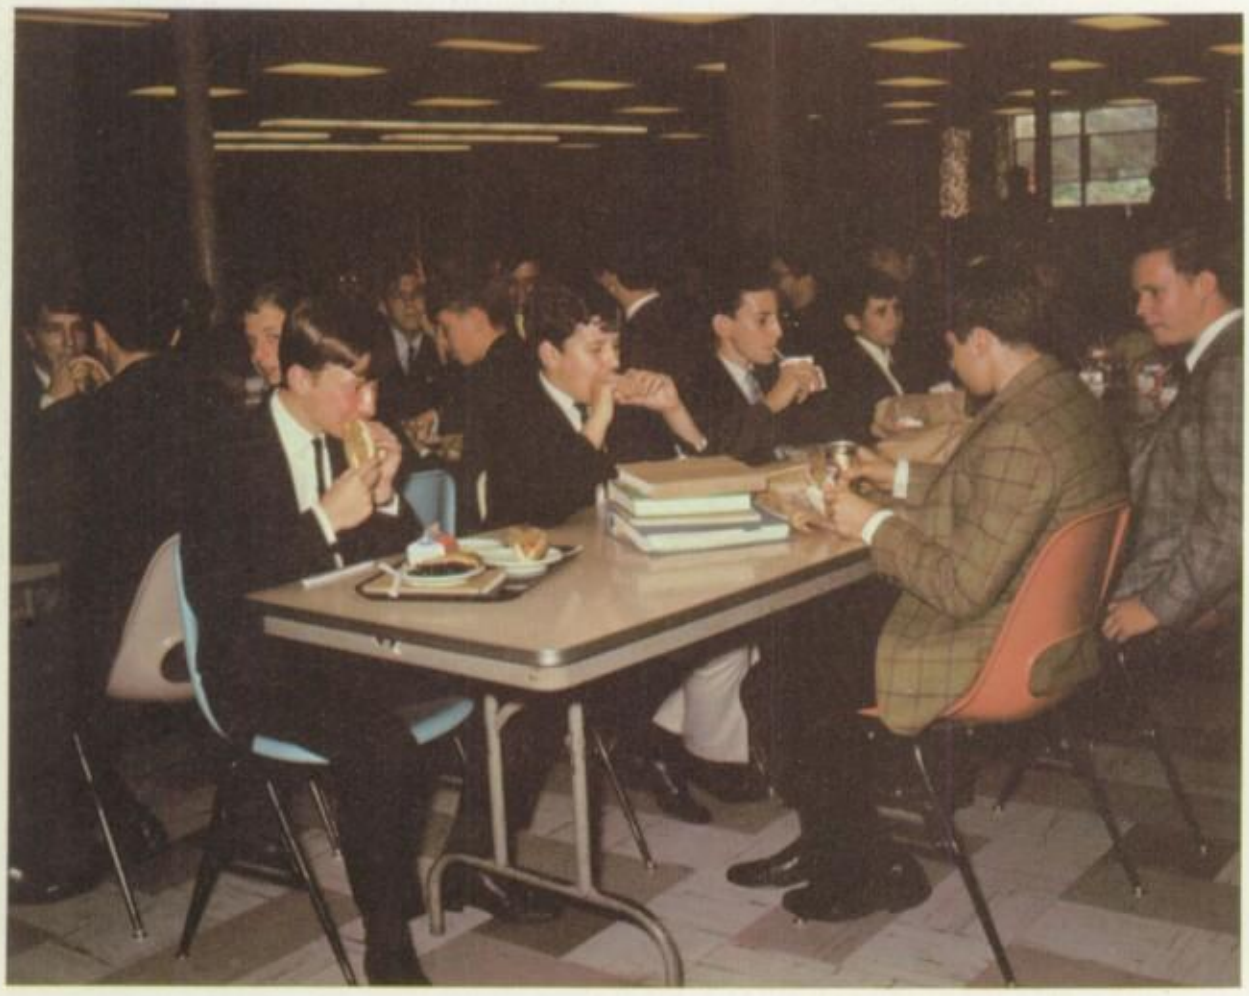
The scene is familiar and each sport has its version, as aching, sweating bodies vie against one another for the brief glory of victory.

Later, with wracked hearts they shrink into their seats, thinking already of their "next time" and their stoic pursuit of perfection that looms just beyond their reach.





OF AMERICA
WELCOME
ROSELLE
CATHOLIC SCHOOL



In our four years at Roselle Catholic the emphasis of our education has been the cultivation and seasoning of our minds. We have covered five-thousand years of history and a thousand principles of mathematics. We have seen the intricacies of language as well as the rationale of man's quest for knowledge of the world about him.

Now the brief story is over and our individual searches go on at other levels and other locales based upon the fundamentals formed here so meticulously.

Dear Graduates of '68,

I do not wish to start this letter with a stock cliche of the type used so often at times such as these. Simply muttering "the years have turned you from boys to men" can never represent the sorrows and joys and events of these years. Let us, however, turn to the future and bask in the warmth of its promise, a warmth radiated by the potential in each one of you.

For you at least, Roselle Catholic's story does not end when you walk through its portals for the last time. It will not end because you, as "young intellectuals," will be the echo of that this school stands for as you pursue the privileges and responsibilities of the adult world-- the pursuit touched to flame by a four year formula whose aim has been to instill in you an academic hunger as well as a driving spiritual curiosity (for these must go hand-in-hand). In brief, we shall share anonymously with you, all of your future happinesses and successes as a direct result of the spiritual, social, physical, and mental education we have given you.

In conclusion, I can only hope that in the future you will think back on the "good old days" at Roselle Catholic and that God may take each of your successes and line them with happiness.

Sincerely in Jesus, Mary, and Joseph,

Br. Stephen Martin, F.M.S.
